The Elm St Murders
Hey Tina! Wanna get fingered?

The Elm St Murders is a theatrical parody of the classic horror film, A Nightmare on Elm St, by The Chainsaw Mafia, a San Francisco based horror production company specializing in film and splatter theater.

Mixing video, live theater, audience participation, fog machines, an original soundtrack, and fake blood, The Elm St Murders gives the audience a unique in-your-face Rocky Horror-esque experience that could never be achieved through film or traditional theater.

One, two, Freddy's coming for you! Nancy Thompson's best friend Tina is gruesomely murdered in her sleep by the demon from Elm Street's past. As her friends are chased down and killed one by one by the mysterious burnt victim wielding gigantic fingerknives, Nancy goes on a hunt to find a solution before its too late.

The Elm St Murders is currently booking gigs outside and in San Francisco, teaming up with comic book shops and other small businesses through sponsorship.

The Chainsaw Mafia is managed by Shannon Lark who starred in Evil Dead: Live, REANIMATOR: the Tale of Herbert West, and Little Red vs. the Undead.

The Elm St Murders is an interactive splatter theater production and is directed by and starring Shannon Lark, NyQ Bonaventura, and Jacque Vavroch. Featuring gloves created by Devon Ryan, one of the creators of the original glove for the classic film A Nightmare on Elm St.
